

CLERK: That is on 1218. It is the more comprehensive one, Senator. You want to withdraw the other two then?

SENATOR DECAMP: Yes.

CLERK: Okay. Mr. President, Senator DeCamp would offer an amendment found on page 1218 of the Journal.

SENATOR DECAMP: Okay. Mr. President, listen up so somebody doesn't say I didn't tell them everything in advance. This is a very major amendment. I've never read it because I just got it not that long ago. I guess I printed it in the Journal. It came as a result of repeated meetings between the banking industry, the federal intermediate credit bank industry, particularly the PCAs, the livestock and fertilizer industry, and just one gob of people like that. Here is what the amendment is supposed to do. It is a, believe it or not, it is a complete settlement of the double jeopardy issue for at least, I hope, isn't that what it is, Gary? Well, criminy, give them the right amendment. Oh, the right amendment hasn't been passed out yet, that is how new it is. Mr. President, maybe we should pass over. I would ask the Speaker one thing. Mr. Speaker, this 606 we intend to use as a vehicle for settling this whole double jeopardy thing. We have reached agreement. All I need to know is absolutely we'll get it up within a reasonable amount of time and we can pass over it.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Well, yes. We don't have too much. It would come up in its regular order in a few days.

SENATOR DECAMP: Okay, because if we can get this out of our hair it will save hours and hours in future sessions.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Okay.

SENATOR DECAMP: So I'll just pass over it for now.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Okay, and also 606A.

SENATOR DECAMP: Yes.

CLERK: Senator, Senator DeCamp, do you want to withdraw the one then that you had?
